

Goals

- Raising the efficiency and effectiveness of the community service affairs sector and developing the environment. In addition to working to develop participation and cooperation with educational and research institutions, centers, and civil society institutions at the local, regional, and global levels.
- Preparing and organizing scientific conferences, seminars, scientific lectures, and training courses aimed at community service and environmental development.
- Preparing plans and programs that activate the university's role in studying society's problems, providing solutions to them, and contributing to development issues.
- Managing crisis and solving the problem that the community suffers from and are related to the fields of computers.
- Providing occupational safety and health and securing the work environment within the faculty.
- Upgrading the level of graduates.
- Meeting the requirements of the labor market.
- Enhancing the faculty's role in meeting the societal needs at the local and regional levels.
- Enhancing the faculty's role in protecting and developing the environment.
- Creating a positive dialogue between the faculty and society
- Increasing revenue for special units.
- Increasing the capacity of the environment sector to contribute to sustainable development, community service, and the surrounding environment, activating the role of centers and units of a special nature, and marketing the college's educational, research, applied, and consulting services.

The role of the Environmental Affairs and Community Service Sector at the Faculty of Computer and Information:

- Signing an agreement with the Faculty of Computer, University of Debna - Canada.
- Signing an Agreement with Razan University - Russia.
 - Establishing a coordination mechanism for setting up joint projects between centers and units to address the problems of society and the environment in an integrated manner.
 - Developing a strategy and research plan needed by the community and setting up implementation mechanisms.
 - Solving society's problems through multidisciplinary applied research
 - Cooperating with other institutions to conduct field and applied research and to conduct consultations facing national and regional issues.
- Establishing a system for financing and disseminating outstanding research.
- Providing self and joint financial support with other funding agencies to assist in conducting research.
- Encouraging cooperation between university centers and units of a special nature.
 - Building bridges of cooperation between centers, faculty units, and local, regional, and international institutions and bodies.
 - Developing a system for monitoring the performance of centers and units of a special nature.
 - Establishing a mechanism to motivate and reward the distinguished employees, directors of departments, centers, and units within the college.
 - Conducting a study to determine the environmental needs for treating community problems and achieving sustainable development.
 - Promoting faculty services in the field of research, environmental studies, consulting, and training.
 - Conducting conferences, seminars, workshops, periodicals, and bulletins for the centers and units of the faculty.

•The Board of Directors of the Community Service and Environmental Development Committee:

Dr. Khaled Fathi Hussein	president
Prof. Marghani Hassan Mohamed	Member
Dr. Nagwa Mohamed Omar	member

Dr. Mamdouh Farouk Mohamed	member
Colonel Engineer / Ayman Mohamed Abdel Wahed Ayyad	member
Mrs. / Al-Shaimaa Abbas Mohamed	member